So I don't like the texture, but I kinda like the effect. But, there is no size slider. For the position of the cube, you can only see the 'move / add new point' button. That button doesn't work. Hi mate. Is there anything wrong with the position of my end node? Im kinda curious about it. Im using Trapcode "3d stroke 2.6.6", with the same position you are using, the object turn upside down as well as no edges, and the textured still with no size. Sorry, I dont know how to help you with your problem. 3d stroke has many different positions, you can find them in the help section. In a pretty damn impressive feat of stamina, US Army troops with the 5th Stryker Brigade Combat Team in Ramadi battled insurgents for six days straight without a single rest period. Army Col. Keith Tandy, a spokesman for the brigade, told Army Times Monday night that members of the unit decided to stage a one-week "water-only" stand-off in the city's Green Zone. "The purpose of the exercise was to enhance the readiness of the soldiers to respond to threats that may occur during an operation," Col. Tandy said. "The U.S. military provides strong leadership and training for our Afghan partners, but does not want to risk the lives of our soldiers in a firefight." The operation was "a best-case scenario," Col. Tandy said. "We did not want to set conditions in which they were forced to fight for six straight days." The brigade has been stationed in the city since last year. "The key point was that the enemy really couldn't detect what we were doing," Col. Tandy said. "We successfully completed an attack and cleared operations throughout the city." The fight started Aug. 18, and the soldiers continued to work around the clock to break ground in a new building, fix a water supply and rehabilitate a mosque. US forces arrived in the city last year to support the Iraqi Army. By October, they reported 82157476af
